

ICPS WELCOMES NEW ALTERNATE BOARD MEMBER ASHLEY DAVIS

The International Carnivorous Plant Society is pleased to welcome Ashley Davis as a new alternate board member. We were excited when Ashley reached out to help with the NC Carnivorous and Exotic Plant Symposium & Expo. It quickly became clear she wasn't just interested—she was ready to work. She immediately offered support across several ICPS initiatives, including procuring videos for World Carnivorous Plant Day, assisting with the Carnivores in the Classroom grant, and identifying speakers for future webinars.

Ashley is the owner of Pearl River Exotics, where she blends greenhouse management, cultivation, and plant retail with a strong focus on outreach.

Ashley says, “With a background in biology and practical growing experience, my work focuses on making rare carnivorous plants and reliable information accessible to growers at all levels. I’m especially passionate about translating scientific research and cultivation techniques into clear, approachable guidance for hobbyists and newcomers.”

She adds, “As an ICPS alternate board member, I look forward to collaborating with others to share knowledge, support growers, and help strengthen our community through education.”

Ashley is eager to connect with members and contribute in meaningful ways. We’re glad to have her perspective and initiative on the board.
